

Trial Font Software End User Licence Agreement

Version 1.00 / Effective date: 22 July 2026

This Trial Font Software End User Licence Agreement ("Trial Agreement") is between Jonathan Quinton, a sole trader trading as Quinton Type in England and Wales ("Quinton Type"), and the person, business or organisation named in the trial request or Trial Licence Schedule ("Trial Licence Holder").

The Trial Agreement governs all trial font files supplied by Quinton Type.

By accepting the Trial Agreement, downloading, installing or using the Trial Font Software, the Trial Licence Holder agrees to be bound by it.

Where a person requests Trial Font Software for a client or organisation, that person confirms that they have authority to accept the Trial Agreement for the named Trial Licence Holder.

If that authority has not been given, the Trial Font Software must not be downloaded, installed or used.

1. Definitions

1.1 Trial Font Software

"Trial Font Software" means any evaluation, demo, test or trial font files supplied by Quinton Type. Trial Font Software may: include only selected styles; contain a reduced character set; have modified names; omit OpenType features; contain technical limitations; or differ from the commercial Font Software.

1.2 Trial Licence Holder

"Trial Licence Holder" means the person, business or organisation named in the trial request, confirmation email or Trial Licence Schedule.

1.3 Authorised Trial User

"Authorised Trial User" means an individual permitted to use the Trial Font Software on behalf of an organisational Trial Licence Holder solely for the evaluation purposes permitted by this Trial Agreement.

Where the Trial Licence Holder is an individual, only that named individual is an Authorised Trial User.

Where the Trial Licence Holder is a business or organisation, no more than five Authorised Trial Users may use the Trial Font Software under the Trial Licence.

1.4 Trial Licence Schedule

"Trial Licence Schedule" means any document or confirmation issued by Quinton Type recording: the Trial Licence Holder; the trial typeface and styles; the applicable Trial Agreement version; and any additional trial limitations.

1.5 Evaluation Material

"Evaluation Material" means private or limited-distribution material created solely to assess whether a typeface is suitable for a possible project.

Examples include: internal mockups; type tests; private layouts; pitch concepts; client proposals; non-final presentations; and private design studies.

2. Trial licence grant

2.1 General grant

Quinton Type grants the Trial Licence Holder a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable licence, terminable in accordance with Section 12, to use the supplied Trial Font Software solely for evaluation.

No commercial, production or publication licence is granted.

The Trial Licence is limited to: the named Trial Licence Holder; its permitted Authorised Trial Users; the supplied trial styles; no more than five devices in total; the evaluation purposes described in this Trial Agreement; and any additional restrictions recorded in the Trial Licence Schedule.

2.2 Individual Trial Licence Holders

Where the Trial Licence Holder is an individual: only that named individual may install and use the Trial Font Software; and the Trial Font Software may be installed on no more than five devices under that individual's control.

The individual may not provide the Trial Font Software to another person.

2.3 Organisational Trial Licence Holders

Where the Trial Licence Holder is a business or organisation: up to five Authorised Trial Users may install and use the Trial Font Software; the Trial Font Software may be installed on no more than five devices in total; the devices must be owned, controlled or authorised by the Trial Licence Holder; and use must remain solely for the Trial Licence Holder's internal evaluation.

Individual Authorised Trial Users do not need to make separate registrations where they are using the Trial Font Software for the same named Trial Licence Holder.

2.4 Separate people and organisations

The Trial Licence does not extend to: another business or organisation; a client that is not the named Trial Licence Holder; an unrelated freelancer or contractor; another agency; or another person using the Trial Font Software independently.

Any separate person or organisation requiring access to the actual trial font files must obtain its own Trial Licence from Quinton Type.

2.5 Duration

The Trial Licence has no fixed expiry.

It continues until: the Trial Licence Holder permanently deletes the Trial Font Software; Quinton Type ends the Trial Licence under this Trial Agreement; or the Trial Licence otherwise ends by agreement. The absence of an expiry date does not permit commercial, public, production or final use.

If the typeface is selected for a project, the appropriate commercial licence must be purchased before the work is published, launched, delivered as final work or otherwise put into production.

3. Permitted trial uses

The Trial Font Software may be used to: evaluate the appearance and functionality of the typeface; test layouts and typographic systems; create private design studies; prepare internal mockups; test compatibility with a proposed workflow; present a proposed direction internally; show a non-final concept privately to a client; assess whether to purchase a commercial licence; use the Trial Font Software in a non-commercial student exercise submitted privately for assessment. Public exhibition, portfolio publication or any other public release requires the appropriate commercial licence.

Evaluation Material may be shared privately with people reasonably involved in evaluating the proposed project. Exported images and PDFs may be supplied for evaluation, provided the Trial Font Software itself cannot reasonably be extracted or reused.

4. Prohibited trial uses

The Trial Font Software must not be used in or for: published work; publicly available work; final client deliverables; commercial products; paid advertising; packaging placed into production; merchandise offered for sale; final logos or visual identities; trade-mark applications; live websites; Apps; electronic publications; broadcast or streaming release; social-media content published as final work; editable templates; font-hosting systems; public exhibitions of final work; or any other live or production use.

The Trial Font Software must not be used to complete a commercial project while avoiding the purchase of an appropriate commercial licence.

If the typeface is selected for a project, the required commercial licence must be purchased before the work is: published; launched; manufactured; broadcast; delivered as final work; made publicly available; or otherwise put into commercial or production use.

5. Sharing and client presentations

5.1 Evaluation Material

The Trial Licence Holder may privately share Evaluation Material with: its employees; its internal decision-makers; a prospective client; a current client; or other people reasonably involved in evaluating the proposed project.

Evaluation Material may include static images, outlined artwork, flattened presentations and appropriately secured PDFs.

5.2 No sharing of font files

The actual Trial Font Software files must not be supplied to a client or any other external person or organisation.

A client may receive static Evaluation Material but must obtain its own Trial Licence where it needs to: install the Trial Font Software; edit live text using the Trial Font Software; create its own layouts; or otherwise access the actual trial font files.

5.3 Designers and agencies

A designer or agency may use Trial Font Software to prepare private concepts for a client where the designer or agency is the named Trial Licence Holder.

That Trial Licence must not be treated as a reusable trial-font library for unrelated clients or external organisations. Where the client itself requires access to the files, the client must obtain its own Trial Licence.

6. Restrictions

The Trial Licence Holder must not: sell, sublicense, rent, lend or give away the Trial Font Software; upload it to a public repository; place it in a shared font library accessible outside the Trial Licence Holder; distribute it with Evaluation Material; use it as a free substitute for commercial Font Software; modify, adapt or rename it; add or remove glyphs; convert it into another format; change its embedding permissions; remove legal or copyright information; decompile, disassemble, decrypt or reverse engineer it; create derivative font software; commission another person to modify it; embed it in a website or App; use it in an open-source project; or use it unlawfully or in a way that infringes another party's rights.

Outlining or rasterising text solely to create Evaluation Material is permitted.

7. Artificial intelligence and machine learning

The Trial Font Software must not be used as training input for an artificial-intelligence, machine-learning or generative system.

It must not be used to: train or fine-tune a model; imitate or reconstruct the typeface; generate substitute fonts; create a glyph or letterform dataset; or enable another system to reproduce the Trial Font Software or substantially similar typeface designs.

8. Storage, devices and security

The Trial Font Software may be stored only on secure systems controlled or authorised by the Trial Licence Holder. It may be installed on no more than five devices in total under one Trial Licence.

The device limit includes: desktop computers; laptop computers; workstations; tablets; virtual machines; and other devices on which the Trial Font Software is installed or made available for use.

Reasonable backup copies may be retained, provided they are not installed for active use and remain secure. Access must be restricted to the permitted Authorised Trial Users.

The Trial Licence Holder must take reasonable steps to prevent: unauthorised access; copying; extraction; distribution; and use by another person or organisation.

When an Authorised Trial User no longer requires access, that person must delete all working copies in their possession. All backup and working copies remain subject to this Trial Agreement.

9. Ownership

Quinton Type retains all ownership and intellectual-property rights in: the Trial Font Software; the commercial Font Software; the underlying typeface designs; the structure and code of the font files; and all associated font data.

The Trial Licence Holder receives limited permission to evaluate the Trial Font Software. No ownership or commercial rights are transferred.

No rights are granted except those expressly stated in this Trial Agreement.

10. Trial files and support

The Trial Font Software is supplied free of charge for evaluation.

Trial files may differ from the commercial release and may not include: every style; every glyph; all language support; all OpenType features; variable font files; or production-ready technical settings.

Quinton Type does not promise that Trial Font Software will operate in every application, device or production environment.

Quinton Type may, but is not required to, provide technical support or replacement trial files. Nothing in this Trial Agreement excludes any right or liability that cannot lawfully be excluded.

11. Liability

Nothing in this Trial Agreement excludes or limits liability where doing so would be unlawful, including liability for: fraud or fraudulent misrepresentation; or death or personal injury caused by negligence.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, Quinton Type will not be liable for indirect or consequential loss arising from evaluation use of the Trial Font Software.

The Trial Licence Holder is responsible for determining whether the typeface and commercial Font Software are suitable before using them in production.

12. Ending the Trial Licence

12.1 Ending by the Trial Licence Holder

The Trial Licence Holder may end the Trial Licence at any time by: stopping all use; and permanently deleting all copies of the Trial Font Software.

12.2 Ending by Quinton Type

Quinton Type may end the Trial Licence by written notice where: the Trial Licence Holder breaches this Trial Agreement; the Trial Font Software is used commercially, publicly or in production; the files are redistributed; the user or device limits are knowingly exceeded; the Trial Licence was obtained using false or misleading information; or continued use creates a material risk to Quinton Type's rights.

12.3 Consequences

When the Trial Licence ends: all use must stop; all copies must be permanently deleted; all Authorised Trial Users must delete their copies; and no further Evaluation Material may be created using the Trial Font Software.

Evaluation Material already created may be retained for private internal records but must not be newly published, distributed commercially or used as final work.

13. Conversion to a commercial licence

Purchasing a commercial licence does not retrospectively authorise any earlier prohibited use of the Trial Font Software.

Once the required commercial licence has been purchased, the Licence Holder must use the commercial Font Software supplied with that purchase for final production where reasonably practicable.

The commercial Font Software is governed by the version of the Commercial Font Software End User Licence Agreement identified in the applicable Licence Schedule.

14. General terms

14.1 Notices and contact

Questions about the Trial Licence should be sent to: hello@quainton.xyz

14.2 Assignment

The Trial Licence Holder may not assign or transfer this Trial Agreement or Trial Licence without Quainton Type's prior written consent.

14.3 Severability

If any part of this Trial Agreement is found to be invalid, unlawful or unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in effect.

14.4 No waiver

A delay or failure to enforce a right does not waive that right.

14.5 Entire agreement

This Trial Agreement and any Trial Licence Schedule form the entire agreement relating to the Trial Font Software. No different or additional term is binding unless agreed by Quainton Type in writing.

14.6 Agreement version

The version identified in the Trial Licence Schedule or trial confirmation applies. A later version does not alter an existing Trial Licence unless accepted by the Trial Licence Holder or required by law.

14.7 Governing law

This Trial Agreement is governed by the laws of England and Wales. The courts of England and Wales have jurisdiction over disputes relating to it. Where the Trial Licence Holder is a consumer, this does not remove any mandatory protection or right to bring proceedings available under the law of the consumer's home country.

14.8 Business identity

Quainton Type is operated by Jonathan Quainton, a sole trader trading as Quainton Type in England and Wales.
